

The portrayal of women in selected British newspapers

By Claudia Mettge

GRIN Verlag Okt 2007, 2007. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 210x148x2 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Seminar paper from the year 1998 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies - Linguistics, printed single-sided, grade: 1,0 (A), (Anglistics/American Studies), course: HS: Linguistic Analysis: Events in complex media coverage, 18 entries in the bibliography, language: English, abstract: The topic of this paper is the representation of women in selected British newspapers. The question which I will try to answer is, whether women are portrayed significantly different from men and if so, in how far this is brought about linguistically. After giving a short synopsis of why a non-discriminatory treatment of women in the media may be favourable, I will first give statistical evidence from the material collected and supplement this with statistical information on where women stand in society. I will then go on to analyse staff and correspondents to see in how far women are involved in the perceptible news production or news reception. After having finished these chapters leading up to the topic of the linguistic analysis, I will then focus on the language in the newspapers. Here, attention will be...

READ ONLINE
[5.93 MB]

Reviews

It is a single of my personal favorite ebook. Better than never, though I am quite late in starting reading this one. I am effortlessly going to get a satisfaction of reading a published ebook.

-- Ms. Lavada Krajcik

Comprehensive guideline for book lovers. It can be filled with knowledge and wisdom I realized this publication from my dad and I suggested this pdf to find out.

-- Ted Schumm